at all. It says that all custodial interrogations, including questioning, or including interrogation and questioning about rights shall be recorded, and provides an exception there if the equipment malfunctions. But it also says, Section 4 found on the top of page 3...or the subsection (4) of Section 3 says that for purposes of this section, custodial interrogation has the meaning prescribed by, and if we adopt the amendment that Senator Brashear has, describes by...described by the Fifth Amendment as interpreted by the Nebraska Supreme Court. So we've narrowly defined where custodial interrogation occurs. And I think that that basically means the police station or a location where the police have given a Miranda right to an individual. So, no, it would not include, as I understand this amendment, and my intent by the bill, it would not include stopping an individual for a traffic stop or things of that nature.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Would that...all right, if he stopped...he was stopped for a traffic violation and then found out that the...through visiting with him that...that he was under the influence or if he had some controlled substances in his possession, would that...would that change things then?

SENATOR BOURNE: I...I don't believe so. I mean it seems to me that when you're...you're...you're speaking of...specifically of a DUI situation?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yeah.

SENATOR BOURNE: I don't see where this would impact that. Because, as I understand the law, the person has to submit to an alcohol...a test to evaluate the alcohol content. I just don't see where this particular portion of the committee amendment would come into play in that situation.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Okay. Well, I'm sure that there will be other people visiting this portion along with me. I...I do...I do have some concerns and hopefully they can be addressed as further debate is held. Thank you.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Janssen. Senator Stuhr.
